

Sea level rise destroys coastal habitats

On land, we build structures like seawalls to protect ourselves from the rising ocean. Squeezed between the water and the walls, coastal habitats will be reduced and many species will have nowhere else to go.

Department of Conservation
Te Papa Atawhai